I attended a conference recently and a presenter stated that the Governor's Office was reviewing the submitted plans to make sure that they addressed the full executive order. Then the Governor's Office would send back the plans that did not cover all the aspects of the Executive Order. The plans are also all online: <https://policereform.ny.gov/>

Still no answer to my response?

So what feedback did Tompkins County receive? Did any of the plans get "kicked back." Does that really sound like the Governor's Office cared what the plans were..... I bet none of them were kicked back. And I've looked at a lot of the plans from across the state and none of them were as offensive to their local police agencies as this County. We have some of the most highly trained and caring LE in the state. This plan was simply for optics and it will soon come to light that the people who wrote it do not know anything about law enforcement. I think they are already starting to realize they messed up. I mean look at how many common council members and county legislators are not running for reelection. And the County Administrator left and the Mayor is trying to change the local government so that he doesn't have to take responsibility. Coincidence? I think not.
